SHOT IN A HANSOM

Young De Forest's Sensational Attempt at Suicide.

Shot Himself in a Cab at New York Hospital's Door.

Said to Be a "Cured" Keeley Patient-His Wound Not Fatal.

Benjamin De Forest, twenty-six years old. d 43 East Thirty-first street, a society man insuccessful attempt to kill himself about 3 clock this morning under highly sensational ircumstances.

Young De Forest is a graduate of the Keeley Institute at White Plains, from whence he was discharged as "cured" of the drink habit just before Christmas. The method of his attempt at self-nestruction indicates an unbalanced mind, and the police report that De Forest was violent and dangerously ex-cited at the time furnishes additional evidence of the pernicious effects of the alleged

BROOKLYN EDITION OF

The trial of the suit of Georgine C. Wolters against Louis Schultz for $50,000 damages for breach of promise of marriage was resumed to-say in Part I. of the City Court, before Judge Fitzsimony, a jury of twelve elderly citizens and a big audience composed of pretty girls in Easter gowns, escorted by callow but devoted youths.

MISS GEORGINE WOLTERS. Mr. Schultz listened with a solemn face to the testimony of Mrs. Georgine Wolters, the mother of the fair plaintiff, and frequently

Miss Georgine blushed violently and Judge
Browne called Charles spiess, a wine dealer restauratur in Broadbireet, to the stand.
Mr. Spiess testified that Charles Wagner,
Mr. Schultz's deceased brother-in-law, came Mr. Schuitz's deceased brother-in-law, came into the restaurant one day with Schuitz and Miss Georgine. "He introduced me. He said. 'This is Miss Wolters, Mr. Schuitz's intended bride.' Mr. Schuitz made no objection to that," said Witness Spiess.

To Lawyer David Leventritt, counsel for Schultz, Mr. Spiess said that Mr. Schuitz had been in the quilting ousiness as a large manufacturer, and that he, spiess, would certainly take Mr. Wagners word on a thing like the marriage engagement of ins brother-in-law.

Miss Amelia Wolters, a round-faced and pr 2 y alstor of Georgine, testified to the counship and engagement of Schultz and her latter, and said:

Lizie Moss, a colored woman of 250 pounds weight, was the cook at the house of Mrs. Dale, in West Nineteenth street, where Schultz boarded, and testified that early in July, 1891, Georgine Wolters visited the house. She was suspicious because Lizzie didn't open the door quickly enough, and though Lizie assured her that Schultz was not in, and assured that no woman had been admitted there, Georgine insisted on seeing Mr. Schultz's room.

Slow-going trains are not confined entirely o the Brooklyn line, however, as passengers on the Ridgewood line know to their sorrow on the latter line there are times when the Most of Brooklyn's "L" Trains engineers seem to be running as slowly as possible without coming to a full stop. It took a Ridgewood train thirty minutes to go rom the Fulton Ferry station to Broadway one day last week. It would not require very fast running to go from the ferry to Wyckoff avenue in thirty minutes. On this occasion, however, the slow time was not due so much to a slow rate of speed us to delays during the trip. In fact, delays are as much the cause of slow time on the different branches of the Union road as a slow rate of speed. Sometimes the two come together, as was probably the case when Mr. Mittenzweig was such a long time in making the journey. Another Brooklyn citizen tells of a wait of thirteen minutes for a lildgewood train last and 8 in the morning when trains are supheadway. As this happened at Evergreen avenue, which is a short distance from the starting point-Wyckoff avenue-it is diffi-
